WISE AND OTHERWISE.

Fellows always on their uppers should not expect lower berths.

The man who is always busy has little chance to get into mischief.

Some people spend so much time planning there is none left for the work.

One reason why money is called dust is because so many are blinded by it.

ACCOMPLISHMENT

BUSINESS. That which busies, as a principal serious concern or interest; that which one has to do; duty; mission; affair; matter; mercantile transactions; traffic; a commercial or industrial establishment.

Every man who engages in an occupation or a profession may be a business man if his engagement be a principal serious concern or interest. Whether his business is narrowly devoted to selfish interests or philanthropically devoted to the highest welfare of humanity as a whole, he is still a business man. The world, the nation, the state, the county, the community, may choose men for the accomplishment of a purpose according to their ability to render "service" to the many, and still may choose business men.

Education is a business—the most important business of any in the community and for several hundred years it has been a leading topic for business consideration of minds whose prominence in the world of activity has found them a place in history.

We may cite Milton, Penn, Carlyle and Rockefeller. One of the four names would seem to have little in common with the other three. But politics is not the only business that makes strange bed-fellows, and to justify the formation of this quartet, we let each of its members speak for self.

In his "Tractate on Education," written about 300 years ago, John Milton said:-

"I call therefore a complete and generous education that which fits a man to perform justly, skillfully and magnanimously all the offices, both public and private, of peace and war. And how all this may be done between twelve and one-and-twenty, less time than is now bestowed at grammar and sophistry, is to be thus ordered. x x x"

In his commonsense treatise on "Education" William Penn—born the very year in which Milton's Tractate was published—said:-

"We are in pain to make them scholars, but not men! To talk rather than to know, which is true Canting. We press their memory too soon, and puzzle, strain and load them with words and rules; to know Grammar and Rhetorick, and a strange tongue or two, that it is ten to one may never be useful to them; leaving their natural genius to Mechanical and Physical, or natural knowledge uncultivated and neglected; which would be of exceeding Use and Pleasure to them through the whole course of their life."

Nearly two centuries later, Thomas Carlyle said in his master essay "Sartor Resartus:"

"Innumerable dead Vocables (no dead language, for they themselves knew no language) they crammed into us, and called it fostering the growth of the mind. How can an inanimate Gerundgrinder, the like of whom will, in a subsequent century, be manufactured in Nurnberg out of wood and leather, foster the growth of anything; much more of the mind, which grows, not like a vegetable (by having its roots littered with entymological compost,) but like a Spirit, by mysterious contact with Spirit; Thought kindling itself at the fire of living Thought?"

Then years later, in asking the public to speak its mind regarding a suggested revolution in educational methods, the General Education Board, founded and endowed by John D. Rockefeller, said, in part:-

"This modern school would not go through the form of teaching children useless historic facts just because previous generations of children have learned and forgotten them; and would also have the courage not to read obsolete and uncongenial classics simply because tradition has made this sort of acquaintance a kind of good form."

"Neither Latin or Greek would be contained in the Curriculum of the modern school, not because their literatures are less wonderful than they are reputed to be, but because their present position in the Curriculum rests upon tradition and assumption."

"Aside from reading, writing, spelling and figuring, the Curriculum of the modern school would be built out of actual activities in science, industry, esthetics and civics. The work in science would be the central and dominating feature."

The quotations from the three great thinkers and teachers—and we might have presented similar views from a dozen quite as eminent and scores of lesser lights—prove the idea is not new.

More and more attention is being given to matters of everyday moment, but it is a business so far behind what it should be, so capable of the longest strides up the hill of advancement, of accomplishment in the needs of the present day.

"Not only do American children as a class fail to gain either knowledge or power through the traditional Curriculum," said the Board's secretary, "but they spend an inordinately long time in failing."

It is this waste of time and energy at a time when each is of greatest value to the individual and the community that the board thinks should be replaced with a sane application of brain and hands to tasks that will fit the young of both sexes for the lines of work they will be required to do later in life.

A like condition more than a half century ago caused Herbert Spencer—himself an exemplar of the rational system of education—to crystalize the situation then—and now—in these words:--

"And here we see most distinctly the vice of our educational system. It neglects the plant for the sake of the flower. In anxiety for elegance it forgets the substance. While it gives no knowledge conducive to self-preservation—while of knowledge that facilitates gaining a livelihood it gives but the rudiments, and leaves the greater part to be picked up anyhow in after life—while for the discharge of parental functions it makes not the slightest provision---and while for the duties of citizenship it prepares by imparting a mass of facts, most of which are irrelevant and the rest without a key."

Our goal must be living, not learning, and who shall say that educating the rising generation is not the biggest business a community or an individual can engage in---figured from any business point of view?

HIGH SCHOOL ANNUAL

Work on a bigger better high school annual is being carried on by the students of the high school. Advertisers and business houses throughout the San Lorenzo valley are urged to support this activity as it is a capital advertising scheme and will promote the welfare of our Valley.

The book will contain pictures and descriptive material as well as a chronicle of school activities. This book will go as an exchange to all parts of the state, to high school alumni, to former residents and be an index to the present condition of progress and prosperity of our community and a prophecy of the new San Lorenzo Valley which is to be within the next decade.

The number of advertisements will be a fair guide to our present prosperity and future prospects.

PERSONALS

Mr Woodard has been on the sick list along with others but is up once more and asking far shrimp salad, so he must be better.

O M Williams returned Saturday from his long business trip south thru Santa Barbara to Los Angeles and home via San Joaquin Valley. He left Monday for San Francisco.

Messrs Isaiah and Henry Hartman left Thursday for San Francisco for a few days. Mr Hartman will leave his fine Sedan car in the city for a coat of new paint. Miss Barbara Hartman also accompanied them.

James Stagg will make a day's visit to Boulder Creek next Tuesday. His many friends will be interested to learn that James is working for the present at the University hospital.

Wilton Purinton has been assisting in the Middleton store for the last two weeks.

Mrs Ann Peery and her two grand daughters spent Saturday visiting in Santa Cruz.

Mrs Stagg has been on the sick list this week

Mrs McDonald and Miss Jessie Harmon have returned to Baulder Creek for the Spring.

Miss Pearl Harris spent the week in Berkeley.

William Dool spent Saturday in the City returning to Boulder Creek at noon Sunday.

Among the Boulder Creek visitors to Santa Cruz Wednesday were Messrs Moncrief, Horstman, Ralston.

Mrs Walter C Grant was so ill on Monday evening that Mr Grant would not be initiated into the Rebekah Lodge I O O F.

Miss Jessie Aarm was reported ill with Flu this week.

Miss Elizabeth Neuman who has been ill is recovering.

Mrs Flora Wiley is reported ill at her home.

Mrs Arthur Waters decorated the Methodist Church beautifully last Sunday with Japanese quince bloom.

The friends of Mr and Mrs Murk and Mr Beeson are glad of their return to Boulder Creek.

Miss Mary Cunningham who came home ill is improving.

Mr and Mrs Loffland were recent visitors to Sauta Cruz.

The Rebekahs took in four new members on Monday evening, following which was a pleasing repast.

IMPROVEMENT CLUB MEETS

Regular meeting of the Improvement Club convened in the usual place of meeting with Mr. Gordon in the chair. There were 24 present and we had a good business meeting. Recommendation by the club through its lighting committee to the Board of Supervisors for the placing of the town lights on the map to be presented to the Supervisors by the lighting committee of the club.

All other committees reported progress in their different lines of work.

Remember the Get-to-gether meets next Tuesday evening, March 21st at Foresters Hall. A good program is promised and usual good eats.

Another thing to remember—If you are in arrears for dues see the Secretary at the next meeting.

REMODELING SHOE STORE

The Boulder Creek Shoe Store is being remodeled and enlarged. The adjoining store on the north is being added to the present quarters and in this two fine new show windows are being put in along with other up-to-date improvements. Mr. Loffland has the work in charge.

BOY SCOUTS TO ORGANIZE

A group of interested boys met on Thursday evening at the former residence of Mr. Lofland to discuss a boy scout organization under the leadership of Mr. Lofland.

It is proposed to use this house as a home for the local organization. Community will be pleased to receive further particulars regading this excellent undertaking.

Daniel Boone's Mark.

That Daniel Boone, famed Kentucky hunter, made an expedition into Wayne and Lincoln county during his career is the belief of a party of lumberjacks who recently discovered the name "D. Boone" chiseled in a large rock at the mouth of a cave on Pond Fork of Four Mile creek, Lincoln county, near the Wayne line. The forms of the letters are said to correspond with the name of Boone which is found carved in the rocks of Kentucky. The rock bearing the name in Lincoln county is located in a remote and wild section.—Huntington (W. Va.) Advertiser.

Much interest is already aroused in the coming concert to be given next week for the benefit of the Ladies Aid. Mr Henry Hartman's many friends have long been anticipating his return and will enjoy this fine opportunity for hearing him render a fine program of violin numbers.

A party of young people enjoyed a day's picnic at the Hartman and Peery Camp.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT

On Saturday, April 8th, the High School will hold an interclass Tennis Tournament on the school grounds to which the patrons and general public are most cordially invited.

It will take all day to play off the tournament and the public is invited to bring lunch and enjoy a pleasant day's outing.

ELECTION OF SANITARY BOARD

Monday, March 13 the following were elected as members of the Sanitary Board of the Boulder Creek Sanitary District: A.W.J. Gibbs, J.W. Cunningham, W.C. Grant, H.F. Waters, J.D. Mosher, Trustees. J.H. Aram, Assessor.

There was a very light vote cast, possibly owing to the fact that there was no opposition, the above names being the only ones placed in nomination.

MRS. DORR COMING

Mrs. S. J. Dorr, past president of the W. C. T. U., whose visit to Boulder Creek on February 24th was postponed on account of the Flu, will visit the local Union Wednesday, March 29th and will remain over until Sunday to carry out a program similar to the one previously planned. Further particulars next week.

LADIES AID CONCERT

A splendid entertainment will be given in Forester's Hall, Friday evening, March 24 at eight o'clock, under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society of the M. E. Church. The talent will consist of Messrs. Henry Hartman, violin, Gerald Gardner, tenor, Franklin Colburn, baritone. Mrs. George Woodard, soprano, Mrs. George Gordon, pianist and Miss Pearl Harris, reader. LUNG BATH SOMETHING NEW Physician Recommends It as Highly Exhilarating, Though Admitting It Can Be Overdone.

"We are all taking sea baths now," said a doctor. "Lots of people take mud baths, too. Stomach baths are prescribed frequently for dyspeptics. But few of us take lung baths as we should.

"You can swab out your lungs as one swabs out a room. Pure air does it. You go out where the air is pure, throw your head well back; inhale through your nostrils as much of this pure air as your lungs will hold, and then expel it swiftly and forcibly. Do this 15 or 20 times—even oftener if you like. Astonishing how it will cleanse your lungs! Astonishing how good it will make you feel!

"Air is a great stimulant, and some of these lung bathers overstimulate themselves, so that they get nervous, can't sleep at night and so on. They do this by such tricks as breathing the pure air in through one nostril only, taking too many lung baths and that sort of thing. Such over-indulgence is perhaps pardonable if you have a piece of hard mental work to do, but if it is made a habit of, it will break down the health like over-indulgence in cocaine or hooteh or any other stimulant."—Detroit Free Press.

Plant Juice for Fish Bait.

Late in the dry season, when the rivers are low in the heart of Africa, the Gwari, who inhabit the central Soudan, set out on prolonged fishing expeditions. The natives who live on the banks of the rivers are proficient fishermen, taking great pride in their work, but the village Gwari are not very sporting in their methods. They go out for the final results rather than for the pleasure of the sport.

They pour the juice of locust tree pods into the pools, to which the streams have shrunk, and this causes the fish to leap out of the water. Wildly they leap, flopping out on the dry river bottom as often as not, but the excited natives do not wait for the fish to catch themselves. They lean over the shallow water, finding great delight in snatching the leaping fish as they flash from the river.

This custom of using the "jump juice" seems to have been handed down from time immemorial among these strange Africans.

FATHER, I've nothing to beg as a gift,
The things that I need I can earn.
I won't kneel to ask you to give me a lift,
When you've given me all means to learn.

But help me to know sixty minutes' an hour,
And sixteen full ounces a pound;
That a dollar is one hundred cents everywhere,
And that truth never has a false sound!

My meal ticket help me to get on the square
Without crowding some other man,
Keep me deaf to the jingle of profits unfair,
And blind to the faults I would scan.

Bring me home to each dinner with conscience so clear,
That while I am eating my meal,
I can look in the eye of the woman who's dear
To my heart, and have naught to conceal.

Keep me young so the kiddies will call me to play,
Don't let me forget how to laugh.
Keep me mindful that life is to be lived today,
Not saved up for some "better half."

Keep me busy and help me to always be kind,
Doing my part as well as I can,
So that when I pass on there may be left behind
A plain stone carved with "here lies a man!"

BEN LOMOND NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. B. Dickinson motored to San Francisco last week for a stay of several days. They were accompanied by Miss A. L. Mac Menus of Crows Nest.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Ellis and brother Mr. Downer of Oakland spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hammond in East Ben Lomond.

Miss Lillian Mc Cabe of Santa Cruz was the week end guest of her aunts, Mrs. Reuff, Mrs. Hammond and Mrs. Will Paradis.

Miss Julia Mc Cabe who is teaching in Monterey county, was the guest of her father J.M.McCabe over Sunday.

Mrs. J. K. Noble; came to Ben Lomond Sunday to be with her husband who has rented the Mrs. Mae B. Moore cottage on Manzanita avenue. She was accompanied by her son who returned to Fruitvale Monday. Miss Margaret Noble who has been visiting in Oakland, returned with them and has taken up her duties at the new Steele sweet shop.

The Rev. Edward Walker who has been ill was able to occupy his pulpit last Sunday.

Mrs. L. E. De Joiner was operated on at the Mission Hill Hospital Wednesday, by Dr. Gates.

Hotel Dickinson will be opened to the public for the season of 1922, the week beginning March 19th,

Mrs. Charles Hartman and grandson Norman Trout are spending the week end visiting in Ben Lomond.

Mrs. W. D. Oakes spent Saturday and Sunday in San Francisco, visiting her friend Mrs. Alcorn who is slowly recovering from a serious illness. Mrs. Alcorn who formerlv lived in Ben Lomond is Mrs. F. Dickinson's mother.

Monday, March 13th was the time of meeting of the Farm Bureau Home Department. It was short as all the business was cleaned up and the meeting was adjourned.

Friday, April 7th Miss McCormick will meet with the Ladies of the Farm Bureau Home department at the Social Hall of the Presbyterian church, when new work will be taken up.

The Work committee of the Farm Bureau Home department, Mrs. Oakes and Mrs. Hayes of Ben Lomond and Mrs. Gibbs of Boulder Creek, attended a county meeting Wednesday, in the Library at Santa Cruz. Pattern work was taken up.

Mrs. Tipping, wife of Lieut. C. C. Tipping U.S.N. and daughter of Postmaster and Mrs. W. H. Nicholson, left with her two children Thursday of last week to go to Long Beach where they will make their home. Lt. Tippinp is at San Pedro.

Mrs. Sarah Franklin who had a long hard siege of the Flu is better and able to be out attending to her work.

Ben Lomond Baseball players will play a Santa Cruz team tomorrow.

Owing to the number of club members who were still in the clutch of the Flu or just reaching the convalescent stage, the meeting of the Ben Lomond Improvement Club was again postponed and will be held in the Club room next Tuesday evening, March 21st. More encouragiug prospects in the way of weather and better health should give a large turn-out and as it is the first day of spring the Ground Hog should be satisfied to let us cele. brate the occasion under more normal conditions. After a short business session the evening will be devoted to entertainment and the enjoyment of good things to eat.

Mrs. Thomas Hessey spent Saturday last in Santa Cruz with her daughter, Mrs. O. Blodgett.

Mrs. A J Hammond, daughter Evelyn and son Richard, spent Tuesday in Santa Cruz, shopping and visiting Mrs. Hammond's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. F A Dickinson were Santa Cruz visitors Tuesday.

The Ladies Aid will meet with Mrs. A J Hammond Wednesday of next week this week's meeting being postponed on account of illness

Jerome McCabe of Watsonville visited his father Frank McCabe Tuesday During the big rains Jerome had to wade water sometimes waist deep, going to and from his place of business. It's no wonder he had the Flu.

Miss Agnes Mann is spending two weeks visiting friends in Pacific Grove and Los Altos.

Another new car comes to the front —Mr. Brown has a new truck.

Mrs. Lulu Hawes spent the week end at her cottage here.

Mrs A B Lane of Aptos spent last Monday with Miss A L Mac Menus at Crows Nest.

Dancing school was enjoyed again Wednesday evening at the Park Hall by the young people.

LET US ALL PULL TOGETHER

Squirrels and Robins Fight.

A fierce lawn battle between forces of squirrels and robins has been observed in Mount Vernon, N. Y. The squirrels and robins on Eleventh avenue, Mount Vernon, have declared war upon each other, and each day the battles are wageing bigger and fiercer. Residents on Eleventh avenue have for some time thrown peanuts on their lawns for the squirrels and bread crusts for the birds of the neighborhood. Three weeks ago a few robins after eating the bread helped themselves to peanuts, and the squirrels ran away. The first day a few squirrels attacked the robins and there was a short but furious fight in which the squirrels saved their suppers. The second day about twenty robins swooped down and the squirrels were routed. The third day the squirrels returned reinforced by an equal number and there was a battle royal for a quarter of an hour. It was a drawn battle, both sides leaving most of their peanuts and crusts on the field.
